Miss Clipper's Anecdotes, Personalities and Comments, CONCERNING STAGE FOLK and Sometimes OTHERS

BY JOSEPHINE GRO.

Alme Todd Jr., the hustling young agent ahead of the Edsall-Winthrop Stock Co., which has been highly successful in the South for the past seven years, and is now making its first Eastern tour, tells of a "T. M. A." meeting in a Southern city, at which Manager Edsall and Pearl Winthrop became members.

After the performance the stage was cleared and the initiation took place. This was followed by an impromptu business meeting, during which certain purchases for the good of the association were discussed. One member mentioned the necessity of having three cuspidors in the clubroom. At this one of the "T. M. A.s," a little Irish flyman, who had presented Mr. Edsall's application, and was noted in town for securing the greatest number of applications for his lodge, arose and said:

"I must say I don't exactly know what's expected of a kushpudore, but just the same, I'll nominate the new member, Mr. Edsall, as one of 'em for the place."

During the subsequent uproar of laughter, Steve sought shelter in the flies, where he was more at home than he was in the realm of words new to him.

In the far past of song successes, it was considered best for a song to have a short title, the better to remember it. Nowadays they are lengthening them out—six or seven words being far from the exception. It remains for Bert Fitzgibbons to go a few better in naming one of his latest song hits, and this is how it happened to contain the unusual number of twelve words—a big difference from the erstwhile popular ballad, "If."

While crossing the ferry to Jersey City a few months ago, Fitzgibbons was seated next to two shopgirls who were discussing their heart affairs in tones quite audible to the song writer.

"Yes," said one of them, "I shook Charlie; he's such a dead one."

"How's that?" asked her friend.
"Couldn't do nothin'—couldn't talk nor dance nor sing. I a't him to sing the old song everybody knows, 'Love Me, and the World is Mine,' an' he couldn't even sing that. He's a back number, so I shook him."

Nine out of ten song writers name their songs from incidents occurring personally to them or coming to their notice, and Fitzgibbons is no exception to the rule. The above related incident suggested the twelve-word title of his new song "Just Because He Couldn't Sing 'Love Me, and the World is Mine.'"

Many instances of quick work in the conception, composition and publication of a song are related, but a song is not the only thing that a wide-awake publisher can accomplish. A few days ago, Isidore Witmark planned an important luncheon in ten minutes, and carried it out in thirty more.

One of the purposes that brought J. C. Williamson, the Australian managerial magnate to America, was to secure some musical productions, principally those of Victor Herbert. To this end, one day at about a quarter past twelve, he telephoned the Witmarks for an appointment at one o'clock. During the five-minute talk over the wire, Mr. Williamson had accepted an invitation to the luncheon which Witmark had quickly decided should precede the business talk.

Promptly at the moment he arrived at a popular hotel near the Witmark Building and was ushered into a private dining-room engaged less than an hour previously. The eyes of the astonished manager beheld a scene which appeared to have taken hours to arrange. The table, arranged for seven, was decorated with flowers and vines, and a fine combination display of the flags of America and Australia. At each plate, suggestive of Australia, whence comes the guest of honor, were placed small kangaroos—for Australia is also the place "where the kangaroos come from." A piano heaped with flowers was not the least of the features hurriedly but thoughtfully provided for the entertainment of the guest. Accompanied by his American agent, Walter Jordan, he was welcomed by three of the Witmarks (Julius, Isidore and Jay), together with Victor Herbert, the composer, and Henry Blossom, the librettist, the two latter having been hurriedly summoned for the occasion over the handy telephone wire.

After a well-ordered repast had been enjoyed, speeches were next in order, followed by popular song selections. Afterward the party adjourned to the Witmark offices, where the impromptu concert was continued through a great part of the afternoon. Herbert sat in his shirt-sleeves at the piano, accompanying Blossom in selections from all their musical plays, some of which Williamson later contracted for.

Few outside of those "in the business" realize how frequently it occurs that accidents or contretemps in a scene are kept unnoticed by the audiences. Usually the scene or situation is as often saved by the quick or clever intervention of one or more of the players as by the stage manager. In such a situation Mlle. Dasie, the dansusee, formerly known as "The Red Domino," came to the rescue at a performance of the opera, "Aida," at the Manhattan Opera House, and had it not been for the manner and grace in which she stepped into the breach, one of Hammerstein's fine performances would, for the while, have been made ludicrous.

Madame de Cisneros, who was filling the role of Amneris, the princess, was entertaining some Russian friends in her dressing room, instead of which, at this time—the beginning of the great third act—she should have been standing at the entrance with the King ready to enter upon the scene and ascend the throne to review the gorgeous pageant.

Grand opera cannot be improvised to cover a stage wait, and Mme. de Cisneros had three flights of stairs to descend after the cue had been given. Mlle. Dasie stood close at hand waiting for the entrance of the ballet which preceded her, and Charles Wilson, the stage manager, discovering the predicament just as the music for the regal entrance began, thrust Dasie's hand into that of the King, saying: "Play the Princess." There was no time to meditate, and in a moment the wonderful little dancer was seated on the throne from which she had often been watched by the Princess who was now impersonating, during the graceful gyrations of her Oriental dance.

But who would lead the ballet? This was the puzzling question she was putting to herself as she watched and applauded the returning warriors passing before her with gorgeous trophies of war. Finally the ballet music began, then Dasie saw at the entrance the prima donna, de Cisneros, making ready for her entrance as dansusee. With an Oriental veil arranged to disguise her personality, the singer tripped forward to the footlights on her toes. Then came an ingenious bit of business that saved the scene. As she approached the throne, the King arose and bowed as if to acknowledge the dancer. Posing himself between the ladies and the footlights, gave them the opportunity of changing places and identities without the knowledge of the audience, and the scene proceeded without further delay, Dasie finishing the Eastern ballet with her usual accompaniment of great applause.

After the opera was over, Dasie assured the prima donna that of all professions she preferred that of a dancer, while de Cisneros declared "I should have died if I had to stay on my toes another second."

A vivacious little woman dining with some friends at the Imperial Hotel Cafe recently was deeply chagrined at a well deserved rebuke which she received.

At the next table, with her back to the group, sat Mme. Nazimova, the Russian actress, now filling the Bijou at all performances. She was awaiting friends with whom she was to dine. The little woman at the other table, whose party had evidently attended the matinee, was regaling her friends with confidences concerning the renowned actress, all unconscious of the latter's nearness. Her conversation, easily heard at a distance of several feet, might lead one to think her Mme. Nazimova's closest friend. Finally, after hearing some observations in which there was no word of real truth, Mme. Nazimova turned in her chair, and said:

"Will you please speak about me in a lower voice? There are several friends of mine near by whom I do not wish to know everything concerning me."

And there was dead silence at the other table, for Mme. Nazimova was quickly recognized.

Benefit for Mrs. Rankin.

Mrs. McKee Rankin, whom the women of the stage are to tender a benefit performance at the Broadway Theatre, New York, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 12, is quite ill at her home in White Plains, N. Y. Requests for contributions have been sent out to her numerous friends in the profession, and many have responded liberally, but according to the finance committee—composed of Ethel Barrymore, Eleanor Robson, Blanche Bates, Julia Marlowe, Viola Allen, Grace George, Annie Russell, Fritz Scheff, Maxine Elliott, Elsie Janis and Edna Shannon—there is a lack of small subscriptions from the general profession.

The committee would be glad to receive any amount, however small, and even an order for a single ticket would be appreciated. The price of the tickets are $3, and they are now on sale at the Broadway Theatre.

Isman Leases Broadway Theatre Property.

The Broadway Theatre property, at the southwest corner of Broadway and Forty-first Street, New York City, has been leased for a long term to Felix Isman, of Philadelphia. The existing lease on the theatre expires on May 1, 1909, when Mr. Isman's tenancy will begin.

Mr. Isman took the lease, which Litt & Dingwall had refused to renew, at more than the present $40,000 rental, for a long period at a rental of $70,000 a year. It was rumored last week that when he takes possession, a year from next May, he will remodel the building, tearing out the interior, and will rename the theatre the Sam Bernard Music Hall. It is to be transformed with new galleries and is to be the home of Bernard, who is soon to sever his connection with Charles Frohman and go under the Shubert management.

"Angela" in London.

"Angela," a farcical comedy, adapted by Cosmo Gordon Lennox, from a French play by George Duval, met with a good reception at the Comedy Theatre, London, Eng., evening of Dec. 4, when it was presented for the first time. Chas. Frohman produced it, and Marie Tempest made a hit in the leading role.

Church Alliance Benefit.

The Actors' Church Alliance will give the play, "In the Soup," written by, and under the direction of Irene Ackerman, at Parish Hall, West Forty-second Street, Dec. 19. The following will assist: Mrs. Katharine C. Fay, Ottilia Rappold, Chas. T. Catlin, Olinda Drescher and Cynthia Irene Ackerman.

Frohman Gets French Farce.

Charles Frohman has obtained the English and American rights of a new farce by Pierre Veber and Maurice Hennequin, entitled "Twenty Days in the Shade," which was produced in Paris Nov. 20. Mr. Frohman will present the play in New York and London in January.

Gillette Completes Play.

William Gillette has completed a new play, which has been named "The Little Affair at Boyd's." Winchell Smith is to stage it under the general direction of Mr. Gillette. Doris Keene is to have the leading female role. The production is slated for production on Jan. 6.

From the Henry W. Savage Enterprises.

Henry W. Savage, on his return from Chicago, will begin the organization of a Boston company to present his wonderfully successful operetta, "The Merry Widow," in Boston. Two companies in the United States are already presenting this musical sensation of Europe and America—the New York company at the New Amsterdam Theatre and the Chicago company at the Colonial Theatre.

Fred Frear, who originated in New York the role of Mr. Nish, with "The Merry Widow," has been transferred to the Chicago company. His role has been filled in the New York company by Harry Blakemore.

Two leading players in New York have asked Henry W. Savage for permission to copy the groups in the comic opera, "Tom Jones," as subjects for old English pictures. The scenes in the comic opera have won much admiration for their accurate representation of English life one hundred and fifty years ago.

To secure "The Merry Widow" as the opening attraction at his new Lyric Theatre, in Rome, N. Y., Frederick Luescher paid to Mr. Savage the biggest guarantee on theatrical record for a "one night stand." Andrew Maple has joined the "Tom Jones" company at the Astor Theatre. Miss Maple was Fantasia last season, in the play of that name, and formerly was with "Veronique," when she was the flower girl. Luescher and in "Tom Jones" she and Miss Maple come together again.

Owing to the determined insistence of George Marion, the well known American stage director, upon a perfect "first night" performance, the French premiere of Henry W. Savage's production of "The Prince of Milet," at the Olympia, Paris, was postponed to Dec. 5. Originally the piece was scheduled to open in Paris on the evening of Nov. 23, but as the date approached Mr. Marion decided that the company, composed of French, English and American players, was not in proper shape to open; and so he demanded that the premiere should be deferred.

Another Forepaugh Stock Co. at Indianapolis.

Manager George F. Fish, of the Olympic Theatre, Cincinnati, O., advocates a chain of stock companies. The second link in what may be more than a prospect, will be added when he takes charge of the Majestic Theatre in Indianapolis. This theatre has passed into the hands of the Anderson-Ziegler Co., of Cincinnati, and it has been turned over to Manager Fish to direct.

He will put in another Forepaugh Stock Co., with Lucille Spilner, now of the Cincinnati stock, as leading lady, and Priestly Morrison as stage director. Gilbert Ely resumes his old role at the Olympic, Cincinnati, and Edward Lawrence, who was treasurer at Cincinnati, will go to the Hoosier Capital as resident manager. Edna Elsmere will return to the Olympics.

Majestic Stock Co. Has Indianapolis Engagement Next Summer.

Joseph Byron Totten, of the stock company now at the Majestic, Indianapolis, authorizes the announcement that he has completed arrangements for a fifteen week engagement for his stock company in Indianapolis next summer, beginning May 15. Theodore Gamble will be leading man. Mr. Totten declined to name the opera house with which he made his contract. He asserted, however, that it was neither the Empire nor the Gayety.

Arnold Daly's New Play.

The first new play in which Arnold Daly will be seen, following his abandoning the stage play, will be produced within a few weeks. It is a dramatization of "My Mamie Rose," the autobiographic story of Owen Kildare.

"My Mamie Rose" was published in England, under the title of "Up From the Slum." It will probably follow the revival of "Candida," the next change of bill at the Berkeley Theatre.

Julie Opp Co. Author of New One Act Play.

A one act play, by Mrs. Wm. Faversham (Julie Opp) and Kate Jordan, has just been produced in Dublin, Ireland, by Maria Harvey and his wife. It is reported to have been enthusiastically received. The piece is entitled "The House of Pierre," and the leading role is that of a blind man.

Julia Marlowe's New Play.

Julia Marlowe will call her new play by James Magin by the title of "Gloria," taking the name from its principal character. An originally submitted play was "The Joke." The first performance will take place in New Haven, Conn., Dec. 20.

Mary Shaw's Plays.

Mary Shaw will revive Ibsen's "Ghosts" and Shaw's "Candida" and "Mrs. Warren's Profession," or her former work, which opened early in February at the Lyric, Harold C. Hill, Percival Ayler and Marie Pettes will be in her support.

Eddie Foy to Change His Name.

Leon Friedman, agent for Eddie Foy, is authority for the statement that after the new year Eddie Foy will use for his stage purposes the name which is his by right, Edwin Foy Fitzgerald.

"The Easterner" is Goodwin's New Play.

"The Easterner" is the name of the new play which N. C. Goodwin will produce during the season. It is by George H. Broadhurst.

Maye Louise Aigen's New Role.

Maye Louise Aigen, who was of the support of Virginia Barnard playing "Anna Karenina," has joined the Forepaugh Stock Co. for service at the Olympic, Cincinnati.

Bayonne, N. J., Theatre Burned.

The Bayonne, N. J., Theatre, at Avenue D and Twenty-third Street, was partly destroyed by fire Tuesday, Dec. 3, and the telephone service between that city and the rest of the country was cut off completely. The fire started in the cellar, from an unknown cause, and spread quickly to the three floors. The "Alcazar Beauties" company, owned by the Sattler Amusement Co., were sufferers from the fire. The damage done to the building is estimated at $18,000, but it will be reopened as soon as repairs can be done.

Leave Vaudeville for the Mines.

Thomas F. Kelly and wife, professionally Kelly and Violet, announced their retirement from vaudeville in Cincinnati. They start for Mexico City Jan. 12, and will devote their future to the development of a gold mine, in which they are large and profitable holders.

Clowns on Rollers at a Cincinnati Rink.

A new amusement wrinkle is offered at Fred Noll's new rink in Cincinnati. George Motz, of the Ringling Brothers' forces, will be the leading clown in a twenty minute circus on skates.

MAUDIE KRAMER.

Whose picture appears on the front page of this week's issue, has for years been popular on the vaudeville stage. She has won distinction as a dancer, and gives banjo solos and imitations of the old darkey banjolist, appearing with her mother, under the team name of the Kramers. They will sail in December for England, and Maudie will shortly appear in musical comedy.

Real Christmas Pantomime.

A genuine holiday pantomime will be produced in New York Christmas week, by Chas. E. Blaney, under the title of "The Bad Boy and His Teddy Bears." It will also be a big extravaganza, introducing ballets, large choruses, a half dozen comedians, numerous vaudeville features and a wealth of mechanical and electrical effects. The book of the extravaganza is by Chas. E. Blaney, score by Ted Coleman.

This production will be by far the most important of any of Mr. Blaney's numerous undertakings. As indicated by the title, the popular Teddy bears will be an important feature. Four of the principal characters will represent bears, and perhaps the most elaborate scene of all will show the underground home of the bears. Another big scene will show a mountain side, down which more than a hundred Teddy bears will slide, helter-skelter fashion, in a climax of fun and frolic. Still another scene will show a circus, where, in many genuine circus acts will be exhibited. All in all, the production is intended to be a typical holiday attraction, particularly designed for the youngsters.

In the cast will be Harry Pflizer, Willie Barrows, Josie Barrows, the Six Dancing Bears, E. T. Scott, Wm. Platt, Doyle and Ingles, Rhodes and Engle, Richard Burton, and a dozen or more well known vaudeville players. The first performance will take place at Yonkers, Dec. 19. On Dec. 23 the Bad Boy and His Teddy Bears will be produced at one of New York's largest theatres.

Keith Lenses London Theatre.

B. F. Keith last week granted a long lease of the Princess Theatre, London, Eng., to Albert Gilmer, who came over from England on behalf of a syndicate.

The lease of the London playhouse was purchased seven years ago by Mr. Keith from Lord Howard de Waldron, owner of the site, with the idea of introducing continuous performances on American lines there. But the difficulty of converting the theatre into a music hall and satisfying both the London County Council and the landlords were so great, that after several legal fights Mr. Keith allowed the theatre to remain empty.

Mr. Gilmer announces that the company he represents will spend $80,000 in alterations on the theatre, and begin at once, hoping to have the theatre open next summer, when they will produce the new drama which Arthur Conan Doyle has written for Mr. Gilmer.

Reuben Castang a Clever Animal Trainer.

Reuben Castang, who trained and is now exhibiting the twelve Hagenbeck elephants at the New York Hippodrome, has brought those animals to a high degree of proficiency in going through their tricks.

Through an error, it was recently announced that Frank Melville trained and operated these elephants, but to Mr. Castang the credit of introducing some of the best and most effective tricks ever shown in New York by elephants. He has the big brutes completely under control, and they do some remarkable things at his bidding. Mr. Castang trained these elephants in England and brought them to this country for Hagenbeck.

Papinta's Body in America.

The body of Papinta, who died on the stage of the Apollo Theatre, Dusseldorf, on Nov. 21, arrived in America last week. It will be taken to Concord, Cal., where Papinta owned a ranch.

"When I was a candidate for office, I did not would carry in Spokane, our people are lib-

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

The picture closely follows the time honored Christmas legend by Clement Clarke Moore, and is sure to appeal to everyone—both old and young. The details and scenic effects are absolutely perfect, while the photographic value throughout the entire picture is beyond criticism. The panoramic scene of Santa Claus on his journey from his castle in the frozen North is a work of art. It is a hand painted scene in oil, giving the most beautiful photographic effects. The photographic and mechanical difficulties encountered and finally overcome if detailed here would seem incredible. There is absolutely no comparison between this picture and any other so-called Christmas picture, and it is offered with every confidence that it will meet with the approval which it certainly deserves.

In "Parsifal" we offer the greatest religious subject that has been produced in motion pictures since the Passion Play was first produced by the Edison Company, about eight years ago, and there has been a constant demand for this picture during all these years, and continuing up to the present day. At the same time there has been not only a demand, but a long felt want for a new religious picture of interest and merit similar to the Passion Play.

In "Parsifal" we believe we have filled this want. A large amount of time, labor and money has been expended in producing this picture. The picture was specially posed and rehearsed for motion pictures. The same talent, scenery and costumes used in the original dramatic production were used for taking these pictures, the company having played "Parsifal" for several seasons. The result is that we have produced a picture both dramatically and photographically perfect, which we offer to our customers and the public with every confidence that it will be received accordingly.

With each film we furnish a complete illustrated lecture, giving a historical sketch of the life of Wagner and his works, the story of "Parsifal," and a synopsis of the different scenes. This lecture is a special feature. It is in itself a literary work of merit, and every exhibitor will find it of material assistance and value in connection with the picture. We also furnish a musical score for the piano when desired.

How he got his chance to masquerade as his "sister" to throw off suspicion, and how the "sister" finally won the girl, is the plot worked out in a continuous series of surprising and laughable situations.

THE PARSON OF HUNGRY GULCH; or, THE RIGHT PLACE FOR THE RIGHT PEOPLE. "Wonders," is the story of a Western happening graphically told by the latest Lubin film, "Only Kids," "A Breeze from the West," "The Making of a Modern Newspaper" and "O. M. C.," etc. There are also great drawing cards, and the "SAVING LIFE" is a very interesting triotic contribution to the list of pictures by the Gaumont firm. The film shows a regiment in camp being ordered to the front. On the battlefield the company is obliged to retreat. The soldiers are ordered to take cover. He hides the flag by wrapping it around his injured limb and is carried to the hospital of the enemy. On his urgent request his wife and child are allowed to visit him. The wife is allowed to see the flag, but the child is not, and is permitted to pass the lines to see the people. When the defeated soldiers return to camp they are cheered by the sight of their dear emblem, and a salute to the grand old flag closes the scene.

"THE SAVING LIFE" is the title of a new set of Vitaphone films, showing the adventures of a sailor, stranded on a cannibal island. He eventually makes his escape. He is picked up by a passing vessel and returns

THE ELOPEMENT

AN INTENSELY THRILLING MOTION PICTURE IDYL.

LENGTH - - - 693 FEET.

THE ELOPEMENT.

A film story in which the daring of young Lochinvar is outdone to a marked degree by a determined suitor. The young gallant's proposal being accepted by the girl, but rejected by her father on account of her youth, persuades her to elope, and at the winking time of night they chug away in an automobile, closely followed by Pa and Ma, who, clad in robe-de-nuit, give chase in another auto. The elopers' machine, becoming disabled, they abandon it and make their way through the woods to the bay where they board a motorboat, and are making good headway when it blows up, throwing them into the water.
The lover succeeds in bringing his precious burden ashore and carries her to a farmhouse near by, where they meet with rural hospitality of the old country couple. Attired in dry clothing belonging to the country folks, the young lovers are married by the village parson, when the parents enter—but too late—so nothing is left but to give them their blessing.
The film is a most stirring romantic story, beautifully staged, with the exterior scenes tinted for moonlight effect. Look for this if you want to give your patrons a real treat.

SWAAB SERVICE

Means THE BEST--We play no favorites.

The fellow who works on the basis of "Make me an offer and I'll tell you the lowest price," is the same small fry who tells you he will supply film subjects in advance of other Rental Bureaus. He even offers you a contract to that effect, but he has no standing in the community and the value of his contract—merely depends on the quality of paper on which it is written. That's all.

SWAAB'S CONTRACTS ARE GILT EDGED.

Our Steadily Increasing Business Proves It.

It follows that a large Rental Bureau like ours must accumulate thousands of feet of film and in order to move some of it quickly, we offer HEADLINER Reels at $35.00 single, six for $180.00 or twelve for $300.00. These films are mounted on ten inch reels, about 900 feet to the reel ready for use.

GAUMONT FILMS ARTISTIQUES ORIGINAUX GAUMONT

NEW MOTION PICTURE FILMS.

We shall place upon the United States and Canadian markets during the week of December 9th to December 14th, three important Gaumont subjects of exceptional quality. Two comedies:

"NOTICE TO QUIT" - - - Length, 614ft."SUNDAY WITH THE BOSS" Length, 607ft.

One patriotic and sensational feature film entitled,

"SAVING HIS COUNTRY'S FLAG."

LENGTH, 700ft.

First scene faithfully depicts military camp life. The regiment is ordered to the front. Soldiers are leaving their barracks and forming into line. The standard bearer bids farewell to wife and child and proudly marches off at the head of the company. The next scene is that of the battlefield on the firing line—an actual pitched battle taking place. The company under fire is obliged to retreat and the standard bearer falls, wounded by a bullet. He hides the flag by wrapping it around the injured limb, and is carried to Red Cross Hospital and kept under guard. Our hero begs to see his wife and child, which request is granted, and a messenger is sent off to summon her. She arrives at the hospital, where a pathetic meeting takes place. He removes the battle rent banner from his injured leg, and, handing it to his wife, she secretes it on the body of the infant. Making her departure she is challenged by the sentinels. On making entreaties to the officer of the guard, she is permitted to pass the lines unmolested, and arrives home almost exhausted. There she relates to her mother the thrilling experiences she underwent, and exhibits the prize.

Wounded and battle-scarred, the paroled heroes are wearily returning home from the battlefield, when the banner bearer's wife appears, waving aloft the tattered flag. The men are thrilled with the sight of the old standard that they fought for and the scene closes, showing the soldiers saluting the "grand old flag."
